For example :

In Medical organization, a large amount of personal data are collected and analyzed by the data miner or researcher or adversaries. Such data may contain sensitive information like disease from medical history or credit records. On the other hand, these data is useful to organization for decision making like to investigate the health condition of the country. While analyzing these data can poses threats to individual privacy, if not done properly. Data mining techniques can expose critical sensitive information about medical databases.

List of Abbreviations

- 1      PBS - phosphate buffered saline
- 2      FITC - fluorescein isothiocyanate

/* This information only for Understanding Purpose

A list of abbreviations is usually optional, but of great help to the reader. It contains all the significant abbreviations used in your report

You should list on a separate page all the abbreviations that you have used in your report. Many of these are standard, e.g.

- PBS - phosphate buffered saline
- Ig - immunoglobulin
- FITC - fluorescein isothiocyanate

Try not to invent too many abbreviations of your own, as it can make it hard work for your examiner to read. In addition, the first time that you use an abbreviation in the main text, you must define it, e.g.

Antibodies were diluted in phosphate buffered saline (PBS)

The next time you can simply use the abbreviation, e.g. Sections were rinsed three times in PBS

You must be consistent. Once you have defined an abbreviation, always use the same abbreviation and do not revert to the original words. ***/

Introduction

1.1 Overview

1.2 Aim/Motivation

1.3 Objective

1.4 Organization of Report

/* This Content only for information,delete it

1.1 Overview It provides a brief summary of previous engineering and/or scientific work on the topic. Here you present an overview of what is known about the problem.

1.2 Aim/Motivation

1.3 Objective

Project objectives are the specific objectives for which the project works to achieve them within a stipulated time.

They should directly address the problem mentioned in the Problem Statement.

1.4 Organization of Report

The rest of this report is organized in following manner. In all chapters, related contents are described in detail.

- Introduction (Chapter 1):
- Literature Survey (Chapter 2):

Chapter 3

Problem Statement

/* This Content only for information,delete it

- problem statement is a clear description of the issue(s), it includes a vision, issue statement, and method used to solve the problem.
- A problem statement expresses the words that will be used to keep the effort focused and it should represent a solveable problem.
- The 5 'W's can be used to spark the discussion about the problem.

The 5 'W's - Who, What, Where, When and Why - is a great tool that helps get pertinent information out for discussion.

Who - Who does the problem affect? Specific groups, organizations, customers, etc.

What - What are the boundaries of the problem, e.g. organizational, work flow, geographic, customer, segments, etc. - What is the issue? - What is the impact of the issue? - What impact is the issue causing? - What will happen when it is fixed? - What would happen if we didn't solve the problem?

When - When does the issue occur? - When does it need to be fixed?

Where - Where is the issue occurring? Only in certain locations, processes, products, etc.

Why - Why is it important that we fix the problem? - What impact does it have on the business or customer? - What impact does it have on all stakeholders, e.g. employees, suppliers, customers, shareholders, etc. Each of the answers will help to zero in on the specific issue(s) and frame the Issue Statement. Your problem statement should be solveable. That is, it should take a reasonable amount of time to formulate, try and deploy a potential solution.
